

Roneta Professional Search News Release

Roneta Grows

CALGARY, August 2005 – Roneta Professional Search, a Calgary based recruitment company, has announced that they are adding a Financial Services practice for September 1st, 2005.

Brenda Andrew will head up the Financial Services division and join Mike Buckner and Chris Jackson as Partners in Roneta. Although only established at the beginning of the year, Roneta is quickly establishing itself as a recruiter of choice in the Calgary marketplace. “Growth has certainly exceeded our expectations, which just reconfirms our belief that Calgary was in need of a strong local presence in the recruitment industry” Buckner said.

Andrew will specialize in Financial Services, Banking and related Sales opportunities. She has an extensive sales, management and recruiting background within both the banking and investment industry and private sector. Prior to joining Roneta Brenda led a National Recruitment Firm in their Financial Services practice. Andrew sees the Financial Services industry as a growing market in Calgary, “Traditionally Calgary has been seen as an oil & gas city and I don’t think that is going to change. However, where there is a vibrant economy you will find the need for related financial services. Not only are companies starting up in Calgary, but national companies historically situated in Toronto and to a lesser extent Vancouver are shifting some of their resources to Calgary. Joining a local company with the reputation Roneta has already established and focusing on financial services makes a lot of sense as it is such a growing industry in Calgary”.

Jackson is happy to have Andrew “Brenda not only has a strong background as a recruiter, she has also done many of the positions she is recruiting for. She will just add to our team by providing such expertise on the marketplace for our clients and those looking to make a positive move in their career”.
